Hi CR

I think your great I've learned so much, and have had very good luck (wrong I have had very good SUCCESS) with your training and skills.

The problem is a year ago I blew it with this woman, a very close friend. She is married and a 10 in my books for a 50 year old. At the time I had no idea as to what I was doing I pushed all of the buttons just right all by accident.

She was so hot and was all over me I wimped out. No self esteem, no confidence. So I lost the opportunity along with the respect she had for me.

Presently after studying your course [SuperSeductionPower.com] and going to work on her sparks are flying again.

I am a 60 year old native American and told her that I had lost my man power and became weak and indecisive, I asked her if she had noticed. She said that I was real pitiful and was ashamed of me.

I told her I had to do a lot of meditating and sweating to bring my man spirit and power back as one. I told her it was even stronger and I felt that I am becoming invincible.

She smiled and said she knew something was different and really likes to be around me now.

There are times when our eyes lock to together she trembles and I can feel the energy. The question should I get More aggressive or keep using The Laughable Answer [TheLaughableAnswer.com] in hopes that she will get more aggressive?

I don't want to blow it this time.

[Luke]

Hey [Luke]

Once her attraction for you is strong, you must "cash in".

Don't think twice.

You have to see yourself as being "massively desirable" and take action.

As you take things in steps along with using the concepts in the laughable answer (or anything that has ever worked for you), you're going to see her become more aggressive.

If that doesn't make sense, let me know.

Take care my friend.

CR,

Meeting a woman and getting her approval upon meeting, often parallels the structure of what you would do when you are attempting to cultivate lust in your wife.

How do I win the approval of a woman upon meeting her. Are there steps to learning? The reason I ask is because since I can't seem to turn my wife on, I am hoping it [learning how to approach women] will help me understand what I am doing wrong..

By that statement I feel if I can win the approval of other ladies upon meeting them I could begin to figure out how to generate lust in my wife for me. I hope I am thinking in the right direction.

Hope you have a good day.

I understand and agree with the connection you have made.

In both cases [getting your wife to want you AND getting a new woman to want you], you have to demonstrate/increase your "sexual value"...

The quickest ways to get started with increasing SV (for your wife or any women) is understanding stuff that applies to 98% of all women... (For example: having confidence, showing her that other people respect you, making her laugh, etc.) COMBINED WITH stuff that laser-targets her personal emotional/psychological "hot buttons"....

This will require getting the right information – which will require listening closely to her + asking the right questions...

If a guy is just starting out with this, he should first find out the traits of:

- her favorite movie stars
- guys she had a crush on when she was little
- favorite quotes
- famous people/characters (mythical or real)
- etc.

You want to pay special attention to "common traits".

You also want to find many ways to get the traits. For example, you could say something like:

"So what are the top 5 traits that make a guy desirable in your opinion?"

Not bad.

But it would be much more effective to ask her:

"If you were writing a romance novel, would you use the typical long hair guy (who looks like a MMA wrestler with lipstick and a stripper's wig) OR would he be different in any way?"

<< The idea would be to get her to say "Hell no! If I were to write a romance novel, the guy would be [Trait A] , [Trait B], [Trait C] and [Trait D]...." >>

When you take this kind of approach, you activate her whole brain - including her imagination (the right hemisphere of the brain) - which is much more effective than to ask her directly (making her "think") - and for some women, this feels like work.

Creating scenarios allow her to slip smoothly into the fun-fantasy...

At any rate, once you have a list of "target traits", then you can start projecting those traits.

It's simple.

You can either "do things & say things" to demonstrate the traits.

[It is important to be yourself as you do this.]

If you want to make sure you are really nailing the trait, you can find out what it means to have that trait.

For example, let's say that the one trait that was consistent in all of her "guys" was that they were CARING...

In that case, you can ask questions like:

"What makes a man CARING?"

"How do you know when a man is CARING?"

etc.

You can keep asking questions that are designed to get a picture/image of what it means to be CARING according to her - because it may be much different than your initial idea of how to be CARING.

Does that make sense?

When you are becoming desirable (increasing your SV) from a 'traits' perspective, it's a simple 3 step process.

Step 1: Find all the traits (that have PROVEN to work on her)

Step 2: Find out HER definition of each trait (so that you know WHAT IT TAKES to project that trait - according to HER)

Step 3: Project the trait.

This will allow you to project the side of you that is most desirable to her in a natural way.

OK you talk about sexual value and tension. I know I am a MAN and make no apologies for it, heroic, confident, adventurous etc...

I basically have to be my best self and find a woman who is compatible with that and qualify her to see if [she] is good for me. (that takes care of the sexual value, easy) but the tension part.

You talk about trying to find out so much about what the woman wants and [things mentioned in SSP]

I find it easier to get her to talk about it and visualize it or whatever to get her in the mood, but because I want to.

Then, to just lead her and give her the best sex I enjoy.

Its good enough to get her horny and thinking about it.

And I am not into people pleasing, I like doing what I enjoy and find a woman who enjoys me for who I am and I enjoy her. Also compliment on what I find sexy about her (like in your newest laughable answer report [TheLaughableAnswer.com]).

I find that the more genuine I am and honest the more naturally it better it works to make her horny. SO i don't really understand why you say to make files and memorize what she likes...

Fuck that!

It's too much work it should be natural and compatible so we can both be honest. I know how to get women horny now. And to be honest if she got turned on by biker/motorcycle guys (to turn up sexual value) I'm not that kind of man so therefore I qualified her to NOT BE RIGHT FOR ME.

SO therefore its not hard its actually easy. Maybe I misunderstood what your trying to say but really its about finding someone compatible and who like my best qualities and then I just learn the sexual tension skills and talking to her sexual side that all women have. And it really is that easy because I've done it so many times now.

Another thing...

I read this study that since men have testosterone we want sex more than women. BUT WHEN women are in the mood from us leading them they ARE FAR MORE SEXUAL. First of all then can have multiple orgasms, And also they have a clitoris solely for the purpose of sex. Also there's really no limit to how often a women can wants sex.

If her emotion of hornyness and sex is on in her mind, she's going to want sex. Its that easy.

SO even if men have higher libido than women (whatever that means) when women get turned on, they are crazy sexual. Especially if done right... What do you say just to clarify things for me??

[Frank]

Yeah [Frank]. I think you may have misunderstood me...

This concept can be very confusing for many guys, but once they really "get it", their sexual value can massively increase - almost instantly...because much of your sexual value is based on your mindset (your beliefs + your philosophies) - and your mindset determines your actions...

And your actions determine your results (good or bad)...

The good news is I not only agree with you (about being yourself).. I'm constantly coming up with new ways to help/teach guys to think like you (as you described) in terms of your own sexual value...

..among other things/lessons...

The truth is...

From a mind state perspective....having sexual value is about being the best YOU possible and to fully embrace yourself to the point where you feel amazing about being YOU... (and no one else)... it's also about IMPROVING...and SELF MASTERY...

So if you want to take things to a whole new level, that will require you to understand the woman you are dealing with...period.

You can argue with that.

You can accept it.

You can reject it.

You can attempt to be impressively neutral about it.

It doesn't matter.. it's not going to stop it from being the truth...

In fact, if you want to get better at anything, the more you know about "the thing", the better...

If you want to get better with training parrots, the more you know about how parrots think, the better you will be with dealing with parrots...

It works that way with women... (except I would advise against throwing crackers at her feet)

So if that means you want to keep notes, then do it... if you think you can memorize everything, then memorize it...

The fact is the more you know about a specific woman (in terms of what turns her on), the better you will be at turning her on...

If she tells you her ex-boyfriend was a biker, then you wouldn't try to literally become a "biker" and to legally change your name to his name...to have facial reconstruction surgery so that you look EXACTLY like he looked .....while making sure that you did EXACTLY what he did...

That's not required...

Luckily, it's possible for a woman (or man) to be attracted to two totally different people who are completely different from each other...

So it's not about becoming a "biker" or literally trying to become someone else.... because then you wouldn't be yourself...

But that doesn't mean you still can't LEEEEAAAARRRRRRNNNN from the "biker"...

In fact, you can figure out WHY she likes bikers...

Who knows? Maybe for HEEEEERRRRR, a biker is someone who lives by his own rules... in which case, you wouldn't have to spend $10,000 on a motorcycle to benefit from the information that she provided you with...

So if she likes GUYS WHO LIVE BY THEIR OWN RULES (and that's why she likes bikers), then you could tell her stories about times when you did things on your own terms... you could "strategically" spend more time showing her "this side of you" that is more rebellious...(and you would still be YOU)

You would just be showing her the side of YOU that lives life on your own terms...

You have to remember that we (as men & as humans) are constantly "consciously and unconsciously" constructing our identities...

First of all, that's easier to type than to actually say.
Secondly, it means we can always decide what rules we'll live by...

So the only thing that I encourage (in an attempt to help guys get better RESULTS) is to teach them to build within themselves a rule that says "I want to learn as much as possible about the woman I'm dealing with." period.

- That does not mean you should hook up with a "trashy" low class and/or dumb and/or selfish woman who won't do the same for you...

- That does not mean you should hook up with someone who you are not compatible with...

The fact is this: The type of women who will please you the most in bed will always be the women who take the time to understand what guys REALLY WANT along with the things THAT YOU (SPECIFICALLY) WANT...

It works the same with guys...(in terms of providing women with an amazing experience sexually or in any other way)

And that's the only reason why every morning, I wake up. I open my bedroom window and I stick my head out and shout very loudly: "the more you know about a woman...how she thinks...what she likes and what she doesn't like... the BETTER you will be at providing her with a great experience..." and then I close the window...

The truth is you don't have to make files...and you don't have to take the time to understand her...in fact, I could give you an impressive list of reasons why it's silly to doing things like that (i.e. it's nerdy, there have been plenty of guys who are great at turning women on who have never wrote down anything about her. I could go on and on)....

but after I'm done creating my list of reasons, it still won't change the fact that "the MORE YOU KNOW about a particular woman (in terms of what she likes), the BETTER you will be at getting her turned on. period.

(and the BETTER you are at USING THAT INFORMATION she gives, the MORE EFFECTIVE you will be)

I mean, you're either

(1) a guy who does things to a woman that you think MIGHT turn her on (i.e. b/c it worked on your ex-girlfriend)

(2) or you're a guy who STRATEGICALLY CREATES SITUATIONS where the new woman ends up telling you (beforehand) something like "when a guy licks on the right side on my neck, it gets me horny as hell"...

So every guy should ask himself which guy is he? (and he should give himself a minimum of 4 days to answer the question) I personally gave myself 5 days, since I created the question!

But to be serious [Frank], it really comes down to what you are happy with and works for you.

So I hope that helps clarifies things. I probably could have done a better job at making this clear in the beginning...

Take care my friend

Warmly

Hi CR

I am from New Zealand and am very much enjoying your reports!
[SuperPowerMedia.com]

I just have a question, haven't finished reading all the reports yet so this may be answered.

My partner of 14 years has never initiated sex with me, nor with anyone.

We have had several split ups because of the lack of sex in the past, two times were for about a year, then we got back together again. She is extremely jealous of other women and doesn't even like me looking or saying anything about them.

I am not sure if it is an insecurity thing, or what. The times we did split up, I did go out with three other women in that time. She often says that she does not trust me because of this, although I am totally committed to her. She has a very low sex drive and often says that if she never had sex in her life again, it wouldn't bother her. She is healthy, so it's not a vitamin problem, just a low libido.

Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated.

By the way, I am an author as well! I have written a book on real estate investing and have just completed a 5 year update on it which is due out soon.

Kind Regards

M.L.

Well M.L

In many cases, the 'belief' that she has a low sex drive will affect how she responds to you...

So it's important to 'pretend to believe' (if that makes sense) that she is VERY SEXUAL as a starting point...

Some guys struggle with this process because it can often require a little creativity.

You have to start with recalling anytime (or all of the times) that she has been more sexual than normal because those moments (however rare they may be) will be your ultimate "leverage tool".

Another thing you'll want to do is get an assessment of:

- her views about YOU
- her views about SEX
- her views about HERSELF
- her views about THE RELATIONSHIP

This may not be a one day project. It could take a couple of days, but what you want to do is listen for "something that reveals" a limited-belief...

For example a guy told me that his wife (who picked up some extra weight as the years went by) told him that:

"As a person gets older, they're going to continue to gain weight?"

I told him to ask his wife:

"What about all of the skinny old people that are walking around. Were they invisible in their 20s and 30s?"

The idea is to convince her (in any way possible) that her belief doesn't make sense. And the best way to get someone to "drop" a belief that is working against them, is to challenge them to explain it...after you have creatively rephrased it.

If a woman's sexual desire is fully or partially suppressed because of a particular belief, then YOU MUST address it.

According to you, she said that she would be fine if she never had sex again, that sounds like "the thing" you need to focus on more so than anything else.

You're not likely to get too far until you address WHATEVER IT IS that makes her say that.

It could be a number of things:

- maybe she doesn't enjoy having sex with you
- maybe she has a "temporary habit" of thinking of something negative whenever she thinks about having sex
- maybe she has a habit of thinking of things that you did that angered her whenever she thinks about having sex with you
- it could be anything.

The idea is to remember that she is capable of enjoying sex. In fact, everyone (male or female) is wired to become addicted to sex. So even if a woman has gone without it for awhile (and she believes that she's OK without it), if it's introduced to her the right way, then suddenly she'll start enjoying it again.

To use an extreme example, if a woman got raped by a guy, then she's going to be perfectly fine with never having sex with him again - because even though they technically had sex (and women are capable of becoming addicted to having sex with a guy) she's OK with never having sex with him for the rest of her life.

When a woman is OK with never having sex with the guy she is in a relationship with it doesn't mean that she isn't capable of enjoying sex.

It could mean that (in her mind) there is MORE PAIN associated with sex, than PLEASURE...

The PAIN could be:

- frustration from feeling unsatisfied during sex {Note: He should buy a book that teaches him how to be a lover... not a garbage sex book, but something like OrgasmPower.com or her could ask a friend who is a good lover or talk to her and see if she'll explain what she likes}
- her own twisted thoughts (i.e. imagining you sleeping with other women)

If you don't get past the whole "I never want to have sex" thing, then nothing else you do will matter.

It then becomes a battle of 'is it worth all of the effort that it would take' (while knowing that realistically they will never be a guaranteed method that works 100% of the time for changing another person's beliefs – and that is A GOOD THING.)

Only you can answer that question.

Simply because you can't force her (on anyone) to think a certain way...

The only thing you can really do is influence her outlook and suggest a more beneficial way of looking at a situation.

As far as getting her to associate sex with something pleasurable, you could remind her of times when the sex life was good... You could "wake up" those memories inside her brain.

Allow her brain to "swim" in those memories.

Make an effort to "activate" those memories (more frequently & more strategically).

If you're able to strategically HOLD HER ATTENTION on a "pleasant sexual memory" just one time, then that's great news, because it means you can do it over and over again.

And then it becomes a game of HOW OFTEN (and HOW LONG) can you continue to do this - while understanding the obvious benefits.

So get her in the HABIT of recalling steamy sexually memories (the times when she gave you the "speechless smile" after sex and the times when she had the wide-eyed orgasms (as if she saw a ghost) and so on...

Warmly,
CR James
