

Questions To CR James

Issue # 008

Hi Cr,

I do think it's a kind of thing where pushing the limit of understanding is needed and that perhaps efforts to find new things are badly needed, so I was a bit disappointed you didn't have the example of a quick boy meets girl more positive interaction?

It's not a whole interaction but I did see this example of an opening line the other day which I thought was very good as it conveyed confidence, a bit of humour of the kind that would put a twinkle in a ladies eye and sense of persistence?

Lots of things could be read into it maybe, the point being it wasn't just on the first level of communication that you speak of. It was very simple too - "Hey, I don't think we've met - yet? My name is...."

One of the things that's beginning to fascinate me about language is the whole idea of not triggering resistance, it seems this example bypasses that and also succeeds in create a confident positive situation, in a way things like this are pretty amazing and I can see why you have been so fascinated by the whole area I've only gotten into it in the last year or less really and it's beginning to fascinate me as well.

As you say at the beginning of that report it's a lot about state of mind?

My own research into attraction keeps leading me to the point of "It's where I am in myself that is the important factor? It's hard to describe the place, it's confident, fun, playful unattached to the outcome with a sense of leadership and authority.

It's very in the moment and can draw on the ingredients of the situation to create humour, fun etc. It's a place where I'm comfortable with myself and that put the other person into a comfortable position as well in themselves? It's more about the energy that this place has than words or what I say?

It's definitely a kind of internal place that has access to more than one level of communication as you also say and sometimes you met a woman where you both are aware that your saying one thing at level one but that it has other subtle meanings at other levels?

And this is something that really creates attraction isn't it as there are looks that go across that say that in a way your playing a kid of private coded communication game as if there are other people there they can often not be aware of it.

So thanks very much again for your material I'll take a further look at your site.

Kind regards
[John]

Yeah exactly...

I hope you now realized why I didn't include a "quick conversation" that conveyed confidence... Inside of [Levels of Communication]

It could be misleading for many guys.. .. it's like the guy who asked me one time if I could give him a "a script" that would allow him to get phone numbers within 5 minutes...

...or the guy who asked me what's the 1 quick thing he can do tonight that will make his girlfriend hornier than she's ever been before...

So there's many different approaches and styles...

If a guy is a completely rookie, he would get some results by using a "humorous style pick up line"...

There's no doubt about it... and I don't have any issues with this at all...

At least he's doing something!

And there's a certain percentage of women who is going to be willing to see what he's all about...and if the woman rejects him, the rookie can kind of shrug it off as "she's no fun"... or "her loss"...

But pretty soon he's going to have to rip off his training wheels and start taking his SKILLS to a whole new level...

In other words, he's going to have to THINK...

And he can only do this with "insight" and by operating with "more wisdom" than most guys...

Because in actuality there are a certain percentage of women who are turned off by a guy displaying an immediate interest (the indirect message)...

And there's nothing wrong with her sense of humor... and it makes sense because she's thinking:

- he doesn't know anything about me
- why is he interested in me (when he doesn't know me)
- his view of a quality woman must be based PURELY on looks
- what does that say about him
- what does that say about his confidence level
- how can he really appreciate me as a person
- if I'm with him and see's (what he believes to be) a better looking woman, how will he react
- he's easily impressed
- and so on...

You get the point...

Imagine seeing a stunning woman in a book store.

She's proud that she just won a kick boxing tournament.

She loves the fact that she has jogged for 200 straight days.

She has an amazing sense of humor.

In fact she can be a goof ball at times.

She just a got a promotion at her job.

She writes poetry.

She thinks.

She doesn't go to clubs or bars.

She's confident.

And she loves meeting down to earth people...

[So imagine seeing THAT WOMAN quietly reading a book on a couch inside of a bookstore.]

Now imagine, seeing a guy walk up to her and say:

"Hey put that book down. I'm the guy you want to take home. You know you want me."

She smiles to be polite and says "I'm flattered, but I have a boyfriend" (she's lying)...

Then 9 minutes and 28 seconds later, another guy walks up to her and says:

Oh I see you're reading: "The Adventure of ABC".

Did you know the author is releasing the sequel in June....and she smiles and says: "Oh really??"...

Two toooooootally different approaches!

[Which guy displayed more personality upfront?]
[Which guy is she more likely to be interested in?]

Notice how the second guy wasn't projecting Insecure-pseudo-confidence"...

Don't laugh, but there's actually people teaching guys to take this sort of approach.

[Good news: It will eventually work on a woman.]
[Bad news: It will eventually work on a woman.]

Anytime someone gives you advice (including friends, trained experts, people with degrees, friends, ME, anyone)...take a few seconds and THINK about whether it really makes sense....

Insecure-Pseudo-Confidence is where the guy indirectly (but really directly) make a bold statement about how confident he is while simultaneously expressing immediate interest in a woman (that he knows nothing about) while pretending that most women don't find this annoying...

Insecure-Pseudo-Confidence is creepy (to women)

Insecure-Pseudo-Confidence is when an insecure guy PRETENDS to be confident.

Every guy has a story about how Insecure-Pseudo-Confidence has backed fired on him...

And to make matters worse, when this style of approach doesn't work that well for him, instead of making adjustments... You know the whole "growing and improving" thing, he pacifies himself with statements like "her loss"... or he mumbles under his breath "that bitch needs to get a sense of humor"...

Oh yeah, she's really missing out...

For a woman who sees value in her inner qualities and the person she IS, she's not interested in this approach at all...

Let's now imagine that "put that book down" guy has a thing for quality women because he's not interested in sleeping with women who are EASILY IMPRESSED (because a 'diseased guy' could get them in the bed in a few hours and that bothers him...)

PLUS he was actually thinking about taking a kick boxing class.
PLUS he used to write a little poetry back in the day...

While he's mumbling "her loss"... whose loss is it REALLY?

So I like the fact that your researching attraction but I REALLY HOPE by "Researching" you mean putting what you learn to the REAL TEST with actual interactions with women...

I wish you much success my friend...

Warmly
CR James

<http://SuperApproachPower.com>
<http://ExtremeMagicalConfidence.com>

<http://SuperPowerMedia.com/10-Distinctions.html>
<http://PirateSeduction.com>

